Saltwater Pathways Program

The Saltwater Pathways Program is a collaborative partnership between the Barossa Aboriginal Future Fund and Programmed, offering a unique employment pathway for First Nations individuals. Participants will gain workplace experience while undertaking VET-accredited training linked to formal traineeships, supporting skill development at workplaces connected to the Barossa Project.

Together, we are committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive workforce, the program actively encourages applications from First Nations peoples, particularly members of Traditional Owner groups from the five coastal regions identified as fund beneficiaries, creating meaningful career opportunities and long-term growth

Qualifications

On successful completion of your traineeship with Programmed, you will receive:

- Certificate III Supply Chain Operations (TLI30321)

Prerequisites

In order to be considered as a potential candidate for a Warehouse Traineeship with Programmed, you will have:

- A commitment to embracing a Zero Harm safety culture
- A positive attitude, self-motivation and desire to learn new skills
- Ability to take directions from supervisors and to ask questions
- Good listening and communication skills
- Interest in developing a career in the natural gas industry

Warehouse Trainees play a vital role in supporting onshore and offshore oil and gas operations by ensuring the safe and efficient movement, storage, and distribution of materials and equipment. Responsibilities include receiving and dispatching goods, maintaining accurate inventory records, preparing orders, and supporting supply chain activities to keep operations running smoothly.

Duration and Training

This traineeship spans up to 24 months and will be based in Darwin. You'll experience a blend of block face-to-face learning, combined with hands-on activities in the workplace. Throughout your traineeship, you'll receive ongoing pastoral care and support to help you grow both personally and professionally, while learning from experienced professionals in a culturally supportive environment.
